Future World Vision: Engineering the Future Built Environment

Amer Muhammad – Managing Director of the Transportation & Development Institute and Future World Vision

This presentation will provide an overview of ASCE’s Future World Vision initiative (www.futureworldvision.org), expand on the need to think about plausible scenarios in the distant future and thread them back to impact our thoughts and approach towards the built infrastructure, introduce the Mega City 2070 desktop platform as a “walk into the future” stimulation and provocation tool, and talk about its application in practice and academia. You will also learn how to get involved with the initiative and serve as ASCE’s ambassador for the program as a Future World Visionary.
